- 5 Years in the Field I've been programming for almost 10 years, and I've been working in the field for almost 5.
- Still Learning I'm still finishing my degree, which means I'm at the cutting-edge of learning. I work on new projects all the time, and I'm constantly expanding my knowledge of the subjects I already know.
- Timeless Code I pride myself on creating clean code that any programmer should be able to look at and understand very easily. My code will always be easily scalable and modifiable in the future whether or not I'm the developer working on it.
- Love Programming I've been working with technology and computers since the 3rd grade, and I've never strayed from that path by an inch. Programming is my passion, and my goal is to become the best Web Developer that I am physically capable of being.
